

Analysis of MCX_JBS agreement_03 02 2020_trk_Redacted.pdf

Generated on: 2025-03-07 12:50:01

Based on the provided text, it appears to be a draft of an exclusive supply agreement between two parties: SEARA MEATS BV (the "Supplier") and PF (the "Distributor"). The agreement is for the exclusive distribution of certain products in a specific territory.

Here are the key points and analysis:

1. Parties: The agreement is between SEARA MEATS BV, a company registered in the Netherlands, and PF, a company registered in Romania.
2. Object of the Agreement: The Supplier grants the Distributor the exclusive right to distribute certain products (identified as CN 16023219 and CN 16023230) in the Territory, which initially includes Romania, Bulgaria, Poland, Greece, and the Czech Republic.
3. Territory: The Territory may be extended to include additional countries, subject to further negotiations.
4. Products: The products referred to in the agreement are identified by their CN codes (16023219 and 16023230).
5. Supplier's Obligations: The Supplier is obligated to ensure that all other distributors (exclusive and non-exclusive) are prohibited from active sales of the products outside their reserved territory and that they are notified of the Distributor's allocation of countries within the Territory.
6. Notification: The Supplier is required to notify the Distributor in due time of any countries outside the Territory in which other exclusive distributors are appointed or are exclusively reserved to the Supplier.
7. Exclusivity: The agreement grants the Distributor exclusive rights to distribute the products in the Territory, and the Supplier is prohibited from supplying the products to other distributors within the Territory.

The agreement appears to be a standard exclusive supply agreement, with the Supplier granting the Distributor exclusive rights to distribute specific products in a specific territory. The agreement also includes provisions for the Supplier's obligations and notification requirements.

However, there are some redactions and garbled text, which may indicate that the document is a draft or has been partially redacted. The text also appears to be in Romanian, with some formatting issues and inconsistencies.
